

Subscription Product Points?

Yes. In Australia and New Zealand, you must pay any sales tax that would be applied to the items redeemed with Subscription Product Points. However, you do not need to pay shipping costs if your free products are added to an existing Subscription or to another order that independently qualifies for free shipping. If the order doesn't independently qualify for free shipping, standard shipping charges will apply. Products paid for with Subscription Product Points will not contribute towards free shipping minimums.
